Spring 2020

LETTER FROM THE PUBLISHER

It's Springtime at Lake Ray Roberts

On our cover this issue is one of the most tranquil places you can find in North Texas and we are blessed that it is the backyard of Pilot Point. It is so close but gives you the feel that you are a million miles away from all of the daily grind around us. With crisp water and rolling green hills, you almost forget that highways are so close.

At Lake Ray Roberts you can get away from it all in a serene environment offering campsites, water activities, and trails. There are so many outdoor pursuits for you and your family to do on your own. But don't overlook the planned programs this Texas State Park has to offer. There are interesting and educational activities for family members of all ages.

In March alone there are several activities and events at different times of the day to enjoy:

Wonders of the Night: Join a ranger to learn what goes bump in the night.

Ssslitherin' Snakes: For the brave at heart or the curious, rangers will help you understand these misunderstood creatures. Join this informative talk to learn all about snakes and meet a non-venomous friend.

Skins and Skulls: Learn about a variety of local animals with a hands-on experience featuring different furs and bones.

Armadillo, the Little Armored One: Join a ranger to learn more about this interesting armored creature.

Primitive Fire: Learn about the domestication of fire one of the most important cultural breakthroughs of early humans. Rangers will show how to create fires like our ancestors once did; through primitive methods and techniques.

Creepy Crawly Bug Safari: From the beautiful to the creepy, rangers will take you on a bug safari. Butterflies, beetles, spiders and bees are all part of the wonderful world of insects you might encounter.

Owl Power: Learn the powers of the owl and what makes them extremely efficient nocturnal predators. Rangers also help you learn how to identify local species.

Monarch Madness: A ranger will share information about magnificent Monarchs including their life history and their lifecycle.

Create a Star Wheel: Join a ranger who will help you create your own star wheel to equip yourself to enjoy the night sky.

Stories in the Stars: This is where you can star hop across the sky and learn about folklore and mythology with the constellations.

The above information was provided by www.tpwd.texas.gov/state-parks/ray-roberts-lake/park_events. Please visit their website to get times and dates and a complete listing of events and activities.

Sincerely,

What's Mooing at Singleton Farms?

Come meet The Belties

By Jodie Linton-Prickett

Come out and interact with the most adorable cows you might ever encounter. They are right here in Pilot Point residing at Singleton Farms. These gentle and beautiful cows are officially known as The Belted Galloway, an old Scottish breed. But like all cute things, they have a nickname, Belties. These peaceful and passive beauties are ready to meet you and your family. They love to eat their cookies made of yummy alfalfa right out of your hand! Feeding these amazing cows is a great photo opportunity and they are not camera shy. Besides their curly locks they are also identifiable by their coloration. It is not unusual to see an Oreo Beltie, these are black with a white stripe around the middle resembling the Oreo cookie. They are also lovely in a shade of brown known as Dun or red with white stripes around their center. Once you see one you will recognize them every time!

This unique breed of cattle is not just delightful to look at. They produce a healthy, juicy and flavorful beef. I know, I know, they are so sweet it is difficult to think of them as food, but they are the healthiest beef choice you can make. They are covered in a gorgeous dense coat of curls that keeps them warm, thus they do not acquire the thick layer of fat under their skin like most cattle breeds. This results in lean meat, under 2% fat. The fat they do have is beautifully marbled throughout the meat resulting in a savory, succulent, delicious beef. Belties offer the healthiest 3:1 Omega 3 ratio and is full of Linoleic fatty acid, Omega 6, making it comparable to chicken or fish. Who knew beef could be so healthy?

These lovely Belted Galloways in Pilot Point are without a doubt happy cows. They are pastured, incredibly healthy, grass fed and finished at Singleton Farms. Belted Galloways are evolved to digest grass and hay. According to the Belted Galloway Association, studies show that this breed consumes more plants than any other cattle breed. The difference can be noted in their weight compared to commercial steers. It is not unusual to find approximately a five pound weight gain a day with grain feed cattle, while the Belted Galloway top out at just over two pounds daily when fed the same portions.

According to Beltie.org: There are several healthy benefits to this tasty beef. On average Belted Galloway's are 46% lower in calories and a whopping 72% lower in fat calories, 68% lower in total fat and 69% lower in saturated fat, 57% lower in cholesterol and 19% higher in protein, 67% higher in calcium and 73% higher in niacin. These studies are USDA reference NDB#13095 Beef, ribeye (ribs 10-12) separate lean and fat trimmed to 0" fat, choice, raw.

Come out to Singleton Farms and meet the Belties and learn more about the beef they produce. Take your camera for the photo opportunities and take your cooler to fill up with nutritious and delicious beef.

How THE ORIGINAL WINDMILL CEILING FAN COMPANY Grew from a Love for All-American Country Living

By Kelly Eggers, Photos By The Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company

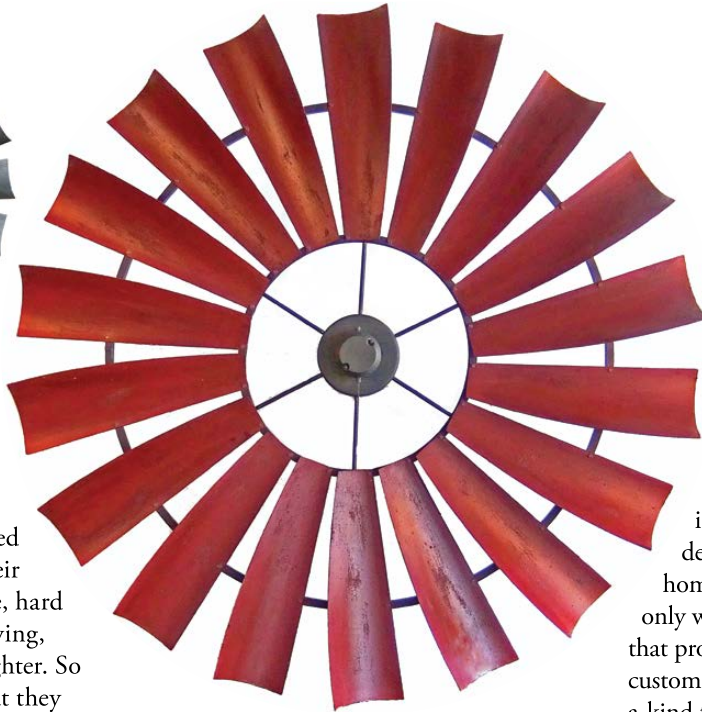

This post is sponsored content presented by the Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company.

Phillip and Kelly Eggers learned so much from growing up on their family's farm, including patience, hard work, the value of good, clean living, and the blessings of carefree laughter. So it should come as no surprise that they couldn't imagine living anything other than that All-American country life.

The Eggers escaped the city and corporate America to build a custom barndominium in the heart of Pilot Point, Texas. Their sanctuary was perfect in every way, including the additions of various treasures from Kelly's family farm.

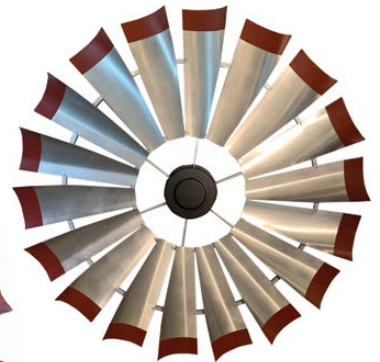

There was just one problem -- it was way too hot.

"Our living space was on the second floor, and the horses lived below us. We had 16-foot vaulted ceilings, so it was near impossible to cool the hot air trapped in the vault," Kelly said with a laugh. "At floor level, the temperature was 70 degrees. "But in the vaulted ceiling, it was over 100 degrees."

The Eggers added more traditional air conditioning, which improved things a bit. But everyone kept telling Kelly that what she really needed were fans -- possibly lots of them. That was when her country living inspiration took over. One day, while looking out across one of the pastures, Kelly spotted their old farm-style windmill and realized that was the answer. Sure, it weighed too much and relied on too large of a motor to be placed on a ceiling. But with a little ingenuity, Phillip realized he could custom make an aluminum version lightweight enough to attach to any ceiling.

"It was the perfect solution," Kelly said. "At that moment, The Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company was born."

The Eggers' company is a pioneer in bringing authentic, historically-designed windmill ceiling fans to homes across America. They are the only windmill ceiling fan company that provides custom finishes, enabling customers to design an original, one-of-a-kind fan perfect for their space. Each fan is handcrafted and fully assembled in the heart of Texas. And because of the aluminum, special ceiling supports are not required, and standard electrical service works perfectly.

"I am so proud and grateful to be able to run The Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company seven days a week, 24 hours a day," Kelly said. "Just ask our customers. We would love to help you come home to one of our unique, beautiful, functional windmill ceiling fans. You'll be glad you did."

Not surprisingly, the hallmark of this company isn't its ceiling fans. Customers look to The Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company because they know they are getting a product built from the honest hands of community-minded people who understand the values and traditions of farm life. Phillip and Kelly grew up on their grandparents' farms in Iowa and Kansas, respectively, and spent their childhood fixing fences, baling hay, hunting, feeding livestock, and making and eating the best home-cooked meals ever -- lard included.

"We both have experiences in the business world that have helped us create and run the Windmill Ceiling Fan Company," Kelly said. "We have lived and learned and know that our knowledge nurtured from the farms and the business world will make our company stronger. You only make certain mistakes once, like being dragged through a manure-filled feed lot face first holding onto the rope of a running calf too long because your grandfather told you, 'just don't let go,' or being shocked to the core because you touched a hot fence line that your cousin said 'wasn't hot.'"

They'll never work another day away from the land that made them -- and The Original Windmill Ceiling Fan Company -- who they are today.

"I am finally home again," Kelly said. "We work hard every day and appreciate the special life we have together."

YARBROUGH FARMS,

Welcome Home

By Jodie Linton-Prickett

Pilot Point has excellent schools with a low teacher to student ratio. The city offers historic charm combined with forward thinking development and planning.

One of the most exciting elements about the location, besides the property itself, is that you are within ten minutes of beautiful Lake Ray Roberts. Yarbrough Farms is a short drive away from water activities, hiking, biking and riding trails, and year round camping.

Outside of Yarbrough Farms, there is plenty to do with your entire family! Besides the lake, there are several unique city sponsored family activities, one of a kind destination points, locally owned restaurants, distinctive boutiques, and amazing green spaces. It is also a community where music and the arts thrive.

Yarbrough Farms has an exciting two phased development, which will consist of spacious estate lots, garden homes, townhomes, four ponds, beautiful greenspace, concrete streets, and public sidewalks for a trail system

Welcome to tranquil country living in Pilot Point's premier master planned development, Yarbrough Farms!

This charming new neighborhood offers the master planned amenities like the neighborhoods emerging along Highway 380, but in the serenity of a small historic town. You are far enough away from the hustle and bustle to relax, nonetheless, you are still easily accessible to highways, shopping centers and airports.

Yarbrough Farms is located on 105 pristine acres, all perfectly situated within the city limits of Pilot Point, while conveniently located near US Highway 377, and within an hour of the DFW Metroplex.

throughout the neighborhood. All of these features allow plenty of room to relax and enjoy country life and leisure!

The estate lots range in size from one-third to one-half acre with some including beautiful mature trees. The estate residents will have access to an amenity center and pool, both maintained by the Estates of Yarbrough Farms homeowners' association. And yes, there will also be waterfront lots available throughout the community.

The garden homes and townhomes will be a much needed addition to the choices of living accommodations for new or existing residents of Pilot Point. This phase will begin later this year. The landscaping of these garden homes and townhomes will be maintained by their own homeowners' associations. Giving you more time to do things you enjoy!

At Yarbrough Farms, you will have the opportunity to meet four quality builders. Each builder is committed to building your dream home specifically for your family's needs. Come out and experience homes created by: Lamp Post Homes, Cashion Homes, TGC Custom Homes, and Red Nail Homes. Each of these builders bring their own exceptional style and experience to the neighborhood.

Just far enough off the beaten path to take you away from it all, you will find Yarbrough Farms. A place for you to rejuvenate your lifestyle, spend quality time with your friends and family, and put down strong roots. Yarbrough Farms, welcome home.

Pilot Point's Fire Department

IS ALWAYS READY

The City of Pilot Point and the Pilot Point Chamber of Commerce held a celebration on February 25 commemorating the official groundbreaking for the new Fire Station. The assembly was held across the street at Groff Park. The groundbreaking had a great turnout with several residents and businesses attending.

The Fire Chief Heath Hudson and Mayor Shea Dane-Patterson spoke at the ceremony and prayer was offered by Dwayne Edwards from Grace Point Church.

The new state of the art department will soon be the newest home to the oldest fire department in Denton County. This year the Pilot Point Fire Department will be 114 years old.

CEDAR DEPOT

On the Right Track

By Jodie Linton-Prickett

Just at the edge of Pilot Point and right before Tioga on the west side of US- 377 you will find a curiosity that is too tempting not to explore.

By the name alone Cedar Depot, you may not realize the visual outburst of vintage goodness that awaits you inside. The shop is chockfull of bright, beautiful nostalgic delights. One room leading to another as you explore dipping from one honey pot to another. Real antiques, collectors' items and objects of virtue appear around every corner and behind every door. You will find items that are pristine to ones that are rusted, weathered, and chipped to perfection.

Even if you are not a collector, a picker, or an avid antique hunter you will find treasures there to inspire you. A Coca-Cola sign from yesteryear might add a pop to your kitchen, a vintage Texaco could bring some character to your garage, or a nostalgic pinball machine to light up your game room; giving your space something distinctive and exciting.

Cedar Depot started its ever evolving presence in 2005 by Doug Phillips. However, the historic 1909 Santa Fe Train Depot was moved in 1998 from its original location in Sanger to where it sets now. More space was required so an old schoolhouse from the 1930's was conjoined to the depot giving it the distinctive appearance you see from the highway today.

As you walk through the building you will notice old graffiti on the walls dating back to 1915, making a visit to Cedar Depot even more remarkable. The building was also the original home of the Circle J Cowboy Church that now resides up the road in Tioga.

Cedar Depot was cultivated from the memory of the roadside relics and antique stores Phillips would daydream about as a child, longing to go in and explore. He was already collecting vintage items to decorate his restaurant when he had the epiphany. Why not create a destination that entices people to come in and draw inspiration from bygone times?

While collecting and recreating memories from his past in the main building, Phillips decided to pursue another passion of working with cedar. "I went to school in Austin and always loved the cedar buildings, so I started a saw mill," said Phillips, "My buddies gave me a hard time saying I wouldn't be able to sell cedar." The buddies aren't giving him a hard time now. Phillips ships his cedar coast to coast. It has been used in a wedding venue in Tennessee, several buildings in Fort Worth and most notable Omaha's famous Henry Doorly Zoo and Aquarium in Nebraska. They also will mill your cedar and are known for their custom tables and other furnishings.

If you are a do it yourselfer, the mill at Cedar Depot can be of assistance to you. They can help you achieve your vision for most any wood related project. From mantels to fencing they enjoy helping seeing a DIY project through.

Inside Cedar Depot, don't be surprised to find a long standing roofing company that has been owned by Phillips since 1995. Through Phillips' antiques, roofing company and cedar mill he has a longstanding relationship in the community and a good reputation of getting the job done right. If you are looking for something specific, especially in historic signage, he is the one to go to.

While inside of the building you will find enough nostalgia that you will feel like you have traveled back in time and outback you will find an aromatic cedar mill. All of which was once a strategic location for Phillips' restaurant. It's funny how things have a way of changing and evolving. Phillips has a long history as a restaurateur specializing in seafood and home-style cooking and originally planned to open his next venture at the very spot Cedar Depot now sets. Maybe someday he will bounce back to the original idea but he seems to be enjoying the path he is on now.

If you have never visited Cedar Depot drop in and treat yourself to a reflective journey. Find something you have been looking for, or better yet, find something that has been looking for you. If you have been it is probably someplace different already due to the ever-changing new old items being rediscovered by Phillips all the time. All of the items available are continuing along on their journey to someplace new. Maybe it is your turn to own a piece of the past.

Cedar Depot is located at 1965 US-377 in Tioga, TX. For more information please visit CedarDepotLLC.com.

Hippity Hop on Over to PILOT POINT FEED

By Jodie Linton-Prickett

I'm excited about all the amazing Easter gift possibilities I noticed at my latest visit to Pilot Point Feed. I am over the moon by all of the stylish apparel, home décor and sweet Easter specific items.

This friendly shop offers so much more than the name implies. With brands like Tash Polizzi, Double D and a wide variety of other apparel available in all price ranges you can't go wrong. Don't be surprised when you also find beautiful chandeliers, furnishing and idiosyncratic jewelry, along with a long list of other items. With Easter just around the corner they have adorable Easter décor. Everything from serving trays, plates, napkins, pillows and oversized Easter Bunnies.

The variety will delight you!

If you are not familiar with Double D it is a collision of Boho and ranch-wear. Super feminine with an authentic cultural undertone. It is a style that makes you want to know more about the person wearing it. When you see the apparel you know it is distinctive and creative. It is a must have in any Texas girls wardrobe!

Besides super exciting fashion, Pilot Point Feed also offers a lovely assortment of impeccable gifts for any occasion. Right now with spring in the air there are several bright and lovely floral items in stock. Who wouldn't enjoy something beautiful wrapped that has been thoughtfully selected by a loved one. The quality of items available at Pilot Point Feed will emphasize your flawless taste.

Oh, while you're there you can pick up something for your four legged family member as well! It is Pilot Point Feed after all.

Drop in and meet the friendly team that will make sure you have an excellent shopping experience. They are located at 1156 North Highway 377 in Pilot Point.
